i heard through the grapevine that the FCC wants comments on wether we should allow internet wiretapping. so here i am, and here it is. i dont feel that internet wiretapping is very justifiable (sp?). i really dont think that anyone should be allowed tohave that much controll over the flow of information in the united states. also, thoes backdoors that may need to be installed can be found and used by mischevious computer users, or anyone who wants our secrets.

whatever you do, be careful. who knows what type of demons you may release by opening this box...
